ABSTRACT

This document describes the instruments and procedures of the graduate follow-ups and program and product evaluations conducted from 1970 to 1978 by Bowling Green State University (BGSU). Three teacher education product follow-up evaluative activities which have been completed are reviewed, and a fourth study being conducted during the 1977-78 academic year is described. Brief outlines are provided of each of the four studies: (1) a quarterly follow-up of College of Education graduates; (2) a general survey of the on-the-job effectiveness of graduates, and graduates' appraisal of BGSU's teacher education requirement in liberal arts, major/minors, and professional courses and experiences; (3) specific program and product evaluations; and (4) a second survey of on-the-job effectiveness of graduates and graduates' appraisal of BGSU's teacher education requirements. The final section of the report briefly outlines attempts to obtain departmental, program, and area "closures" from the results of the various evaluative follow-up studies. The appendices present the instruments and cover letters used in each of the four studies. (JD)

Quality education for elementary and secondary school students is dependent upon quality education of their teachers. Not only has man's knowledge and technology expanded at an exponential rate, but social, economic, and political forces have imposed increasingly complex demands upon our educational system.

In recognition of the many, varied, and different expectations for teachers in today's schools, the State Board of Education adopted new "Standards for Colleges or Universities Preparing Teachers."

To assist colleges and universities effect compliance with these new standards, a historic special-purpose biennial appropriation was approved by the 111th General Assembly.

Fifty-one colleges and universities in Ohio who prepare men and women to enter various teaching fields are now engaged in significant restructuring of their preservice programs. The primary purpose of this restructuring is to increase the entry-level performance of beginning teachers. Administrators, practicing elementary and secondary teachers, students, college and university faculties, and interested citizens throughout the State are working together in this endeavor.

Excellence in the preparation of those who will enter the teaching profession is essential to providing the professional services needed in today's society:

Preface

Maintenance of acceptable teacher education programs demands a continuous process of evaluation of the graduates of existing programs, modification of existing programs, and long range planning. It is assumed that faculty and administrators in teacher education evaluate the result of their programs and relate the findings of this evaluation to program development. . . . The ultimate criterion for judging a teacher education program is whether it produces competent graduates who enter the profession and perform effectively.

The above excerpt which reflects NCATE's views regarding teacher education program and product evaluations and the State of Ohio's position, contained in Item A of "Standard EDb-303-08 Evaluation,"² demonstrate the relevance of the present document.

This document describes the instruments and procedures of the graduate follow-ups and program and product evaluations conducted since 1970 by Bowling Green State University.

The purpose of the document is to share Instruments and procedures. More specifically, the document provides information which will enable other institutions to adapt, replicate, or further refine the presented procedures and instruments.

The document should not be viewed as the model for product follow-up and program/product evaluations but as a description of what Bowling Green State University has done in the area. Although Bowling Green's efforts for the evaluation of its programs and products have been well received and used by institutions in Ohio and other states, it is anticipated that the long-range effects of the contents of this document will be that of a catalyst for others "to develop improved means for making such evaluations."³

Section I

Purpose of the Document

The purpose of this document is to share with other agencies and institutions the procedures and instruments of product follow-up and program/product evaluations conducted by Bowling Green State University (BGSU) in relation to its College of Education graduates. This document summarizes the main components and presents copies of the instruments of the several teacher education product follow-up evaluative activities completed at BGSU since 1971.

This document provides information which should enable other institutions to adapt, replicate or further refine the presented procedures and instruments. It should not be viewed as the model for product follow-up and program/product evaluations but merely as a description of what one university has done in the area of program/product evaluations.

Specifically, this document reviews three teacher education product follow-up evaluative activities which have been completed and describes a fourth study being conducted during the 1977-78 academic year.

A brief outline of each of the four studies follows:

A quarterly follow-up of the College of Education graduates. The first mailing for this follow-up is approximately eight weeks after each of the four graduations per year (December, March, June, and August). Mailings are repeated until approximately 80% are returned. The purposes and procedures of this activity are discussed in Section II of this report.

A general survey of the on-the-job effectiveness of graduates and the graduates' appraisals of BGSU's teacher education requirement in liberal arts, majors/minors and professional courses and experiences. This study was conducted during the 1971-72 academic year. The purpose and procedures of this evaluative endeavor are discussed in Section III.

Specific program and product evaluations. This study commenced during the spring of 1974 and culminated during the 1976-77 school year. Each of the more than thirty teacher education programs (American Studies, Arts, ..., Elementary Education..., Speech Pathology) at BGSU constructed teacher competency statements. From these statements, the Office of Educational Research and Services devised more than thirty questionnaires to gain feedback from 1968-74 teaching graduates as to the graduate's need for, use of, and level of proficiency in various competencies. The questionnaire also attempted to determine where the graduates gained most of their proficiency within the various skill areas.

Each graduate's principal also received an appraisal instrument. This study is discussed in Section IV.

A second survey of the on-the-job effectiveness of graduates and the graduates' appraisals of BGSU's teacher education group requirements in liberal arts, majors/minors and professional courses and experience. This study will be conducted during the 1977-78 year for graduates from 1972 through 1976. The instruments that will be used are revisions from the similar 1971-72 study. This 1977-78 project is discussed in Section V.

Section VI of this document briefly outlines attempts to obtain departmental, program, and area 'closures' from the results of the various evaluative follow-up studies.

The appendices present the instruments and cover letters used in each of the four studies.

Section II

The Quarterly Follow-up of the College of Education Graduates

After the Registrar has verified the list of students who met the graduation requirements (approximately six weeks after each graduation ceremony), the computer center prepares four sets of gummed labels of the teacher education graduates' addresses.

The first set of labels is used in sending out the placement response card (see Figure 1) to all graduates. When a student returns his card, his address label is pulled off the second and third sets of labels. When the card returns start to diminish (usually in about two weeks), the second set of labels (now consisting only of names of those who did not respond) is used in sending out the first reminder. The same procedure is used in preparing the third set of labels, i.e., the names are pulled off the third set when the response cards from the first reminder are returned to the College of Education. In approximately two weeks, the third set of labels (now consisting of the names of those who did not respond to the original request nor to the first reminder) is used in mailing the second reminder. The fourth set of labels is saved for possible future use. Copies of the three cover letters are presented in Appendix A.

Placement Response Card

A rather extensive key is used in coding the graduates' responses for computer analysis. A computer tape of the responses is started anew with each academic year, i.e., each December graduation. The responses for the succeeding three graduations (March, June, and August) are added to the tape at appropriate intervals.

The data on this education tape is then joined (usually in January, thirteen months after the first graduation ceremony) with the existing data on the SIS (Student Information System) Education File for the concerned academic year.

A specially prepared computer program, working with the data stored on the two tapes, performs an analysis of the data and prints summary tables of the results.

Descriptions of numerical tables which the computer program prints are:

1. Number of Graduates By Commencement Month
2. Percentage Results of Number of Returned Cards to Number of Graduates
3. Location of Respondents Teaching by State
4. Respondents Teaching in Ohio by County
5. Summary of Reasons for Not Teaching
6. Summary of Type of Certificate and Type of School
7. Top 20 Ohio School Districts Employing Respondents
8. Major Area of Respondents, Teaching and Not Teaching
9. Graduate School Status of Respondent
10. Salary of Respondents Teaching
11. Respondents Teaching and Performing Extra Duty
12. Occupations of Respondents Not Teaching
13. Preparation and Assignment by Major (Table correlating teacher's preparation area to teacher's placement areas).

In brief, there are two primary reasons for conducting the immediate follow-up of graduates:

1. To gather the necessary data to complete placement information forms for the State Department of Education and NEA.
2. To inform the various teacher program areas, departments, and Career and Placement Office as to the supply-demand characteristics for the various teaching majors.

An Optional Procedure

An institution may obtain placement data on its graduates teaching in the State of Ohio from the State Department of Education, Computer Services Division. There are nominal costs involved.

The institution should contact the Computer Services Division to ascertain the best approach for identifying its graduates on the State Department's annual SF-1 tape. An SF-1 tape is built each year from data furnished (approximately October 15) by each Ohio school principal. The principal must record the names, social security numbers, assignments, and so forth for all teachers in his school organization. This tape is usually operational by April of the same academic year.

The State Department of Education can furnish the name of the employing school district, teacher's position and assignments, enrollments in his or her classes, type of certificate held, latest degree earned, and total years of experience. By combining the two sets of records (the teacher education institution's and the State's), it would seem that a very useful placement profile could be made for those graduates teaching in the State of Ohio. It should be noted that the State Department of Education will present the information on paper printouts, computer tape, or both.

Section III

A General Survey (1971-72) of the "On-the-Job" Effectiveness of the Graduates and Their Appraisals of the Bowling Green State University Teacher Education Programs

The Instruments

A copy of the 1971-72 questionnaire sent to the graduates, a copy of the questionnaire sent to the graduates' principals, as well as copies of both cover letters are presented in Appendix B.

The teacher's questionnaire was constructed to gain information as to how the graduate felt about the various components of his or her preparation at Bowling Green State University. The principal's instrument attempted to obtain information regarding the performance of the teachers. Each question was, in general, keyed to a specific BGSU course, experience, or requirement.

The teacher's questionnaire was constructed in the following manner:

1. Ideas for questions and format were obtained from the results of a nationwide canvas of AACTE teacher education institutions during 1970-71. These schools were asked to send BGSU an example of the follow-up instruments they had used or were using and any other information they deemed important. Many institutions responded to this request. All these questionnaires helped as a guide in preparing one that was suited to BGSU's purposes.
2. A committee was formed to react to comments, questions, and statements prepared by Fred L. Pigge, Director of Educational Research and Services. It was decided that an attempt should be made to gain feedback on each required major course or experience in the teacher education program. Specific questions were prepared to cover the required components: student teaching, methods courses, Foundations of Education (Educ. 408), Organization of Education (Educ. 409), Tests and Measurements (Educ. 402), and Educational Psychology (Educ. 302). At least four questions on the instrument pertained to each of these required components.

3. After the questions were prepared, those for a certain course or experience were sent to that area for approval or revision.
4. The end product of this type of input and additional questions prepared by Fred Pigge was a forty-five item questionnaire consisting of 126 variables (copy presented in Appendix B).

It should be noted that the first eighteen questions on both the teacher's and principal's questionnaires were similar in wording. However, the teachers' responses pertained to their professional and liberal arts preparation. The principals' responses pertained to the level of the teacher's performance.

Four questions (numbers 18-22) on the principal's questionnaire were not matchable to questions on the teacher's questionnaire.

The principal's questionnaire was developed in such a way that it would not take much longer than five to ten minutes to complete.

The Procedures

BGSU delivered a set of approximately 1400 computer cards to the Computer Services Division of the State Department of Education. Each card indicated the name and social security number of a teacher education graduate thought to be teaching in Ohio. The Computer Services Division, by keying on social security numbers and the principal's SF-1 data (see "Optional Procedure" in Section II of this report), provided the following information on 968 of the graduates:

- 1. Type of teaching certificate
- 2. Subjects or grade levels taught
- 3. Principal's name
- 4. School address
- 5. Two sets of gummed mailing labels for the teachers
- 6. Two sets of gummed mailing labels for the teachers' principals

A questionnaire was sent to each of the 968 teachers and 667 principals the latter part of April, 1972.¹ Reminders and additional forms were sent about May 15, 1972. By July 30, 1972, 556 pairs of responses had been received. In addition, approximately fifty principal reports were received with no matching teacher form and 132 teacher forms were received with no match from their principals.

Altogether, there were 556 pairs of responses out of a possible 968; a matched return of 57%. The unmatched principal returns (50) were discarded. The additional 132 teacher's responses were analyzed. In all, 688 (or 71%) of the teachers responded. Approximately 200 of these teachers had more than one year of teaching experience; the remainder were first-year teachers with a median of eight months of teaching experience.

During the summer and fall of 1972, these data were coded, computer cards punched, data analyzed, and a summary report typed, duplicated, ¹Some principals were supervising more than one BGSU graduate.

and distributed to all teacher education areas and programs at Bowling Green State University.

The teachers' responses (as well as the principals') to each item were separated by major and then pooled for a total summary. Frequencies and percents were the major statistical units reported.

Advice to possible replicators of these procedures: To not send a principal's questionnaire to a principal without the teacher's consent. It is suggested that replicators send a copy of the principal's cover letter and questionnaire to the teacher, explain the need for this type of data, and ask the teacher to forward it to the principal along with signed permission for the principal to furnish the Institution with the requested data. Thus, the principal cannot be accused of making a covert evaluation. (For an example of the implementation of this suggestion, see the principal's questionnaire presented in Appendix D.)

Section IV

A Study of Specific Product and Individual Program Evaluations

Introduction

This section presents information pertaining to a Bowling Green State University follow-up evaluative endeavor which started in February 1974 and continued into the 1976-77 academic year.

This 1974-76 study involved the preparation of thirty-one two-part questionnaires, which were mailed during the fall of 1975 to approximately 2,400 1968-74 graduates of the College of Education who were known to be teaching in Ohio as of October 15, 1974. In addition to the teacher questionnaires, a questionnaire was also developed and sent to principals of the 2,400 graduates. Each teacher's questionnaire was divided into two parts. Part A presented competency statements for required professional education courses and activities, such as Education 402 (Tests and Measurements), Education 408 (Foundations of American Education), Education 409 (Organization of the School in Relation to Society), Education 302 (Educational Psychology) and Student Teaching.

Part B presented competency statements related to the teacher's major area of preparation. Each questionnaire attempted to obtain data on the teacher's need for, use of, and proficiency in the listed competencies, and the locus where this proficiency was developed. The principal's questionnaire attempted to elicit information as to the teacher's need and proficiency regarding sixteen competencies.

A copy of each of the thirty-one teacher questionnaires (one Part A and thirty-one Part B questionnaires) and a copy of the principal's questionnaire are presented in Appendix C. Copies of the cover letters are also presented in Appendix C.

The Instruments

A separate Part B questionnaire was prepared for each of the following thirty-one teacher education majors at Bowling Green State University:

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|---|
| 1) American Studies | 17) Library and Educational Media |
| 2) Art Education | 18) Mathematics |
| 3) Biology | 19) Music |
| 4) Business Education | 20) Physical Education HPE-Men |
| 5) Chemistry | 21) Physics |
| 6) Distributive Education | 22) Political Science |
| 7) Earth Science | 23) Psychology |
| 8) Elementary Education | 24) Romance Language |
| 9) English | 25) Science Education |
| 10) Geography | 26) Secondary School Physical Education - Women |

| 13) History | 29) Special Education |
| 14) History and Political Science | 30) Speech |
| 15) Home Economics | 31) Speech Pathology and Audiology |
| 16) Industrial Education | |

Thus, thirty-one two-part questionnaires were developed for the follow-up/evaluative endeavor. The first part (Part A) of each questionnaire attempted to elicit the teachers' need for, use of, and proficiency in twenty-six teacher education competencies. It also attempted to determine where the teachers developed their needed competencies.

The competency statements were constructed by education faculty who were teaching the several required education courses at Bowling Green State University. These five groups of faculty were teaching or directing the following courses or activities:

1. A course in Tests and Measurements
2. A course in Foundations of American Education

3. A course in Organization of the School in Relation to Society
4. A course in Educational Psychology
5. Student Teaching

Each of the five groups of faculty members was asked to construct more than five but fewer than eleven teaching competency statements based upon the aims and objectives of the courses or experiences they were teaching or directing. After revising and meshing, twenty-six statements were developed to form the first part of the instrument.

The second part of the instrument consisted of competency statements developed by faculty throughout the university who were engaged in teaching courses within the students' major area of specialization, i.e., involved for the most part in content preparation. For example, the biology professors most involved with teacher education were asked to develop between ten and twenty statements which described the content competencies those professors thought future biology teachers should possess. Like the education professors, the biology professors were asked to restrict their frame-of-reference to the required teacher-education courses and activities existing at that time. That is, they were not to describe "what should be offered or required" or curricular revisions not yet implemented.

With these procedures, thirty-one specialized sets of competency statements were produced, mainly by the faculty of the Arts and Sciences College at Bowling Green State University.

Each graduate of the College of Education who was selected for the follow-up was sent a two-part questionnaire. The first part consisted of the twenty-six professional education competency statements pre-the professional section (Part A) of the teacher's questionnaire. The seventeenth and last statement on the principal's questionnaire was:

Considering total effectiveness in guiding pupil growth, I believe this teacher exhibits: Proficiency

- _____ 5. Extensive
- _____ 4. Above Average
- _____ 3. Average
- _____ 2. Limited
- _____ 1. Not Proficient

The response format for the first sixteen statements on the principal's questionnaire was:

The need for this competency in the teacher's position:

The teacher's proficiency in these competencies:

Not needed Limited, but some need Average need Above average need Very extensive need 1 2 3 4 5	Not proficient Limited proficiency Average or adequate proficiency Above average proficiency Extensive proficiency 5 4 3 2 1

The exact wording of the remaining fifteen statements can be found in Appendix C.

The Sample

During the spring of 1975, Bowling Green State University sent approximately 6,000 computer cards to the Computer Services Division, Ohio State Department of Education. Each computer card included the name and social security number of one of BGSU's 1968-74 teacher education graduates. The Computer Services Division, by keying on social security numbers and using a computer tape on which all basic information on each Ohio teacher was listed, implied that approximately 2,400 were teaching in Ohio on October 15, 1974. The State Department furnished multiple sets of gummed address labels for the 2,400 teachers and their principals. These gummed labels were used during the fall of 1975 in mailing the evaluative follow-up questionnaire.

One thousand eight-hundred fifty-one usable returns were received from the principals or supervisors and 770 usable returns were received from teachers. It was estimated that approximately 10% of the teachers were not in the same positions in 1975-76 as they were in 1974-75.

(Mailing labels used in 1975-76 were based on 1974-75 data.) Thus, the corrected sample size was approximately 2,150 making for an 86% return from the principals and a 36% return from the teachers.

The Findings

The teachers' and principals' responses were coded and then key-punched onto computer cards. A specially written computer program presented the findings (mainly frequencies and percents) by item and by major, and, for Part A, the pooling of all majors.

Five printouts of the findings for each of the thirty-one Part A and B programs were developed--four of these printouts were then sent to the specific area or department most concerned with the content preparation of those teachers. In addition, the responses to the Part A (professional) section were typed, duplicated, and distributed to all faculty involved in professional education within the College of Education.

Tables 1, 2, and 3, presented on the next six pages, are illustrative of the summary findings from the professional section (Part A) of the questionnaire.

Section VI of this document describes how the College of Education attempts to obtain closure from departments and areas regarding findings of the follow-up evaluative studies.

Advice to replicators of these procedures: Do not send a principal's questionnaire to a principal without the teacher's consent. It is suggested that replicators send a copy of the principal's cover letter and questionnaire to the teacher, explain the need for this type of data, and ask him to forward it to the principal along with signed permission for the principal to furnish the teacher education institution with the requested data. Thus, the principal cannot be accused of making a covert evaluation. (For an example of the implementation of this advice, please see materials in Appendix D.)

Section V

A Second General Survey (1977-78) of the "On-the-Job" Effectiveness of the Graduates and Their Appraisals of the Bowling Green State University Teacher Education Programs

Procedures and Sample

The survey currently being conducted (1977-78 academic year) is essentially a replication with instrument revisions and updating of the 1971-72 study (see Section III and Appendix B).

Computer cards with names and social security numbers of the teacher education graduates for the 1972-73 through the 1975-76 school years were sent to the Computer Services Division of the State Department of Education in June 1977. The Computer Services Division, by keying on social security number and utilizing the October 15, 1976, data furnished by each Ohio school principal, provided multiple sets of address labels for each graduate who was teaching in Ohio as of October 15, 1976:

Thus, the sample for this follow-up evaluative endeavor will be a group of teachers (and their principals) with varying years of teaching experience. If the instruments are mailed in November, 1977, approximately one-fourth of the teacher respondents will have 1-1/2 years of experience, one-fourth will have 2-1/4 years, another one-fourth 3-1/4 years, and one-fourth, 4-1/4 years.

The Instruments

Instruments (one for the teacher and one for the principal) and cover letters are presented in Appendix D. Both instruments consist of items used to some extent in one or more of the past studies.

As with the 1971-72 teacher's questionnaire (see Section III and Appendix B), the present questionnaire (see Appendix D) was constructed to gain information as to how graduates evaluate the various components of their professional and liberal arts preparation at BGSU. Section A of the instrument presents several of the competencies listed on Part A of the 1974 questionnaire (see Appendix C) and asks the teachers to denote need and proficiency ratings. It also presents space and format for the teachers to denote where they gained most of their proficiency within each competency area.

The principal's instrument (see Appendix D) was constructed to gain inferences regarding the teachers' total effectiveness in guiding pupil growth and the principals' ratings of teachers' need and proficiency for most of the competencies listed in Section A of the teachers' instrument.

Special notice should be given to the manner in which the principal will receive the questionnaire for this 1977-78 study. The teachers will receive a copy of the principal's questionnaire, will have a chance to read it, and, if the teacher has no objections, will give it to the principal. The teacher will authorize the principal to complete the form by signing the permission form at the top of the principal's questionnaire.

Proposed Analysis and Reporting

Frequency and percentage analyses will be conducted of responses to each item by years of teaching experience, by major area of preparation, and the total (regardless of major or experience).

Summary tables presenting these findings will be typed, duplicated and distributed to all faculty involved with teacher education.

Section VI of this document presents a brief summary of the closure process for all follow-up, evaluative endeavors.

Section VI

Closure--The Role of the Education Program Council in the Teacher Education Product Follow-Up and Program/Product Evaluations

The Program Council of the College of Education is composed of representatives from all program areas within the College. Each representative is elected by the various program faculties. In addition to faculty on the Council, one graduate and one undergraduate student serve with full voting privileges.

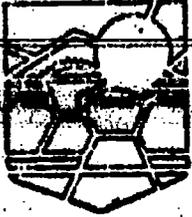

There are twelve listed functions of this Council, with Function 10 being:

10. To ensure that existing programs are updated and otherwise revised in congruence with program evaluative data.

Each department or teacher education area is provided a summary of the findings from each of the follow-up evaluations. Departmental or area responses to the Program Council take the following form:

1. Verification that at least one meeting of the program area faculty was spent in consideration of the results of these analyses.
2. A written summary of the strong (if any) and the weak (if any) aspects of the program as evidenced by study and further analysis of the results and written comments.
3. A written statement from the program area specifying actions and a timeline of such actions for addressing noted deficiencies.

To: December, 1975 Graduates
College of Education

Dear Teacher Graduate:

The Office of the Dean receives many requests for information about our teacher graduates. In addition, we need information to assist us in our efforts to meet the rapidly changing professional needs of our undergraduates and employing school districts.

In December, 1975, there were approximately 174 teacher education graduates. As one of these graduates, please take a few moments to complete and mail the enclosed card. No postage is needed.

Even if you are not teaching now, please provide the information requested. Your present employment is important to us and to others requesting information about our graduates.

Your response is sincerely appreciated. Please complete and mail the enclosed card today. Thank you.

Sincerely yours,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Educational Research and Services

To: December, 1975 Graduates
College of Education

Dear Teacher Graduate:

Perhaps you have been very busy or our first request for information did not reach you.

Since your reply is extremely important if we are to obtain an accurate picture of our graduates, we are enclosing a new card already stamped and addressed for your convenience.

Please take a few minutes now to fill in the information and drop the card in a mailbox. We are aiming for a 100% return and need your help.

Best wishes for the future.

Sincerely yours,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Educational Research and Services

of the College of Education
"Teaching or Not Teaching"

Dear December, 1975 Graduate:

Please, this makes the third time that we have humbly and respectfully requested your assistance. What are we doing wrong?

More specifically, you have not responded to our first and second requests for information relative to whether you are or are not teaching. Your reply is very important if we are to obtain an accurate estimate of the ever-changing job placement situation.

If you are teaching, we need to know where and what. Also, if you are not teaching, we need to know if it is of your own choosing or because of no available position.

This information will help us plan for the future. Please take the three minutes now to fill in the information and drop the card in a mailbox. Thank you.

TO: Recent Graduates
B.G.S.U. College of Education

Dear Teacher Graduate:

We are constantly asking ourselves, "How well have we prepared our graduates for teaching?" "Just how good are some of the required courses?" Etc. Would you help us arrive at an answer to this question? I realize the questionnaire is rather long, but a shorter one could well have proven to be a waste of efforts.

Please take a few minutes to give us your honest reaction to the questions posed on the accompanying questionnaire. This questionnaire is being sent to all the recent graduates who are teaching in the State of Ohio. After analyzing the responses and summarizing the comments, we will be in a better position than at the present time to make plans for improving our teacher education programs.

Please do not be alarmed because we are asking for your name and social security number. If events go as planned, we will attempt to locate you during your third year of teaching and have you respond to the adequacy of your college preparation at that time. It is for this reason that we are asking for your name and social security number. Please be assured that personal responses to this questionnaire will be held in confidence.

Needless to say, we do appreciate your cooperation in completing this questionnaire. You are assisting us in improving the quality of our teacher education programs.

Please return the completed questionnaire in the enclosed pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope.

With kindest regards and grateful appreciation,

Directions: Please check one response for each item.

A. General Education (Group Requirements e.g. I, II, III, IV)

1. The general education program
 - (1) provided for acquisition of a breadth of knowledge needed by "educated" people
 - (2) was somewhat valuable
 - (3) was generally a waste of time(69)

2. The general education program:
 - (1) provided a good background for teachers
 - (2) was somewhat significant for prospective teachers
 - (3) was generally of little significance for prospective teachers(70)

3. In completing the group requirements for your undergraduate program, how much opportunity did you have to select courses which were suited to your own needs and interests?

TO: Principals of Recent
B.G.S.U. Graduates

Dear Principal:

We are constantly asking ourselves, "How well have we prepared our graduates for teaching?" We need your help in arriving at an answer to this question.

According to records in the State of Ohio, Department of Education, (Miss, Mrs., Mr.) _____, a graduate of B.G.S.U., is teaching under your supervision.

We are very much concerned about how well our graduates are guiding pupil growth. It is for this reason that we are respectfully asking you to take a few minutes to give us your honest reaction to questions posed on the accompanying questionnaire. All of these questions pertain to the teacher's effectiveness in the school situation. (If perhaps a supervisor or a department head is in a better position to respond, please forward the questionnaire to that person.) This questionnaire is being sent to principals of all our recent graduates who are teaching in the State of Ohio. After analyzing the responses and summarizing the comments, we will be in a better position than at the present time to make plans for improving our teacher education programs.

Please be assured that personal responses to this questionnaire will be held in confidence.

Needless to say, we do appreciate your cooperation in completing this questionnaire. You are assisting us in improving the quality of our teacher education programs.

Please return the completed questionnaire in the enclosed pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope.

With kindest regards,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Educational Research & Services

Note to readers: My advice in 1976 is for you to send this letter as well as the principal's questionnaire to the teacher. Ask her, if she is willing, to forward it to her principal for completion. Thus, there is no covert evaluation of a teacher.

Principal or Supervisor's Name _____ Principal Supervisor
School System _____ City _____
Teacher's Name _____
His Grade Level or Subjects _____ School _____

Please check the numeral which best describes this teacher for each of the following traits. The comparison (base) group should be all of the first-year teachers with whom you have been acquainted.

- 5 -- Checking a "5" indicates that the first-year teacher ranks at or near the top of the comparison group for this trait. (Very adequate -- top 15%)
4 -- A "4" indicates that this teacher ranks somewhat above most of the first-year teachers but not in the top 15% for this trait.
3 -- A "3" indicates average when this teacher is compared to all first-year teachers for a particular trait. (Adequate)
2 -- A "2" indicates that the teacher ranks somewhat below average when compared to all first-year teachers.
1 -- A "1" indicates that the teacher ranks at or near the bottom of the comparison group for the particular trait. (Inadequate -- bottom 15%)

TO: Teacher Education Graduate
College of Education
Bowling Green State University

Dear Graduate:

We at BGSU are constantly asking ourselves, "How well have we prepared our graduates for teaching? Are we emphasizing needed competencies? Do teachers use the knowledges and skills we attempt to emphasize? Etc." Would you help us arrive at answers to these questions? I realize the questionnaire is rather long but a shorter one could well have proven to be a waste of efforts.

A few words about the procedures of the present follow-up are probably in order:

1. Part A of the questionnaire covers the competencies related to the education courses and experiences at BGSU, e.g. Education 402, (Tests and Measurements), 408 (Philosophy of Education), 409 (American Public Education), 302 (Educational Psychology), student teaching, etc. All possible respondents will receive Part A. These statements were constructed by education faculty.
2. Part B of the questionnaire covers competencies of the various specialized majors, such as English, mathematics, elementary education, etc. Twenty-five different Part B questionnaires were constructed by faculty in the various specialized areas, e.g. Dept. of History, Dept. of Romance Language, Dept. of Mathematics, Chemistry, etc.

Thus an elementary education graduate and a math graduate will receive questionnaires with the same Part A but different Part B's.

3. A listing of all our teacher education graduates from 1968 to 1974 was sent to the Ohio State Department of Education. By keying on social security numbers and the principals' fall reports, the State Department produced sets of gummed mailing labels. One of these labels was used in mailing this questionnaire.

I assure you that personal responses to this questionnaire will be held in confidence. All the responses will be tabulated and distributed to the various program areas. Please give us this feedback so that we might better know how to prepare future teachers.

Please return the completed questionnaire within 10 days of receipt in the enclosed pre-addressed, postage paid envelope. With appreciation, I am

Sincerely yours,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Research and Services

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING THE QUESTIONNAIRE

For each of the listed Competencies, please indicate your opinions in the following four areas by circling the appropriate number. Please use your best judgment in arriving at your decision of which number to mark.

Need - Please indicate your opinion as to the necessity of the competency being included in your teacher education curriculum at BGSU.

Use - Please indicate the extent to which you use the competency in your present position during the year.

Developed - Please indicate the manner in which each competency was developed.

Proficiency - If the competency was developed at BGSU, please indicate your degree of proficiency.

TO: Principals of
BGSU Teacher Education Graduates

Dear Principal:

We are constantly asking ourselves, "How well have we prepared our graduates for teaching?" We need your help in arriving at an answer to this question.

According to records in the State of Ohio, Department of Education, (Miss, Mrs., Mr.) _____, a graduate of BGSU, is teaching under your supervision.

We are very much concerned about how well our graduates are guiding pupil growth. It is for this reason that we are respectfully asking you to take a few minutes to give us your honest reaction to questions posed on the accompanying questionnaire. All of these questions pertain to the teacher's effectiveness in the school situation. (If perhaps a supervisor or a department head is in a better position to respond, please forward the questionnaire to that person.) This questionnaire is being sent to a rather large sample of principals of our recent (1968-74) graduates who are teaching in the State of Ohio. After analyzing the responses and summarizing the comments, we will be in a better position than at the present time to make plans for improving our teacher education programs.

Please be assured that personal responses to this questionnaire will be held in confidence.

Needless to say, we do appreciate your cooperation in completing this questionnaire. You are assisting us in improving the quality of our teacher education programs.

Please return the completed questionnaire in the enclosed pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope.

With kindest regards,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Educational Research & Services

Note to readers: My advice in 1976 is for you to send this letter as well as the principal's questionnaire to the teacher. Ask her, if she is willing, to forward it to her principal for completion. Thus, there is no covert evaluation of a teacher.

TO: Recent Graduates
Bowling Green State University
College of Education

Dear Teacher Graduate:

We are constantly asking ourselves, "How well have we prepared our graduates for teaching?" "Just how valuable are some of the required courses?" "What do school principals think of our graduates?" Etc. Would you help us arrive at answers to these questions?

Please take a few minutes to give us your honest reaction to the questions posed on the enclosed questionnaire entitled: "An Appraisal of My Preparation as a Teacher..." This questionnaire is being sent to all the recent graduates who are teaching in the State of Ohio. (I realize the enclosed questionnaire is rather long, but a shorter one could well prove to be a waste of efforts.) After analyzing the responses and summarizing the comments, we will be in a better position than at the present time to make plans for improving our teacher education programs.

In addition to the white questionnaire, a pink questionnaire is enclosed for your principal to complete. Please scan the principal's questionnaire to determine if you object to any of the questions. If you have no objections to his completing the form, please transmit to him the "pink" questionnaire along with the pink copy of this cover letter and the return envelope. Please note that you are to fill in the five blanks at the top of the principal's checklist -- this in effect gives him permission to provide us the requested responses. If you object to the principal completing the questionnaire, discard the questionnaire and mark "No" in the proper space on your white questionnaire. We hope, however, that you can see fit to give the principal your permission to complete and return the "pink" questionnaire. Regardless, we certainly need you to complete the white colored questionnaire.

There are three primary reasons why the College of Education is conducting this follow-up evaluative endeavor:

1. We want to know your evaluative reactions to our courses, projects, and experiences. In other words, we desire to know what you think of the courses and programs in which we more or less forced you to enroll.
2. The responses, as a group, should suggest specific and worthwhile changes and revisions in our curriculum.
3. The State Department and various regional and national accrediting agencies strongly recommend that evaluative follow-up studies of past teacher education graduates be completed and the results utilized to promote better and stronger programs. These agencies also force us to gather data regarding how well our graduates are performing on the job -- thus the primary reasons why we are asking for data from your principal. (In other words, if we want to continue certifying teachers we must collect, analyze, report, and react to such data!)

Please be assured that your responses, as well as your principal's, will remain anonymous. Only summary tabulations by major/minor areas or other groupings will be presented to our faculty and to outside agencies. When your (and your principal's) responses have been coded onto computer cards, the original questionnaire(s) will be destroyed. At no time will names or personal responses be made public as to their origin.

Please return the completed questionnaire within 10 days of receipt in the enclosed pre-addressed postage paid envelope.

With sincere appreciation, I am

Sincerely yours,

Fred L. Pigge, Director
Educational Research and Services
College of Education

Directions to the Principal.

Please read the cover letter sent to the teacher. This letter explains the purpose of this checklist. Also, under the present laws of our land it is my understanding that the teacher should give you authorization to complete this checklist. In this manner you will not be a party to a covert evaluation. Therefore, if for some reason you have the checklist but the teacher has not signed the authorization at the top of this page, please check with him/her and attempt to obtain an indication of the teacher's intentions.

Please fill in the following four spaces and then complete the checklist. Specific instructions accompany the items.

Thank you.
